Raymond E. "Butch" Covey, 71, of Hagerstown and formerly of Frederick, died August 20 following injuries from a fall. He was born in Baltimore and grew up on a farm outside Johnsville. Ray was a member of the Frederick High School Class of 1960, and was an active volunteer with the Community Free Clinic in Hagerstown. I was so sorry to hear about Ray's death. He was a true friend to myself and my daughter over the last several years. You see, my daughter is mentally challenged and Ray befriended her. He called her " the terror of Funkstown", because that is where we used to live. In church, he brightened our day and always had a joke for us.I will miss seeing him at church and our few talks on the phone. You always called me in May around the time of Sharon's death and I knew you never got over losing her and losing her so fast. Well my friend, you are with her forever and have to be VERY happy. Thank you for your friendship. It was greatly appreciated during a time that I needed someone to talk too.
